

ONECOUNCIL

Strategic Initiatives Led by Partner Physicians

Physicians know how best to care for oncology patients. As a physician-led organization, the development of OneOncology's national clinical and strategic initiatives is led by partner physicians through an all-physician body called OneCouncil. Each partner practice on the OneOncology platform elects one representative to OneCouncil. Several committees report to OneCouncil, making recommendations and designing initiatives in the following areas:

- Pharmacy & Therapeutics
- Clinical Pathways
- Research
- Precision Medicine
- Radiation Oncology
- Palliative Care
- APP
- Advocacy
- Disease Groups (Breast, Lung, GU, GI, and Hematologic Malignancies)

OneCouncil ensures that physicians are always leading decision making at every level at OneOncology and is further evidence of OneOncology's commitment to being by physicians for physicians.

WHAT OUR PHYSICIANS SAY:

OneCouncil is where our physician leadership, decision-making, and collaboration flourish. We meet every three months and we have representatives from all the practices at the table, so that we are able to have the entire physician leadership and decision makers who come together to collaborate and brainstorm ideas as to the direction OneOncology should take in the future

OneOncology is really a physician-run and -led organization. Physicians are in charge of guiding and steering the organization in the direction of what we want to achieve in the delivery of cancer care for our patients throughout the country.

This includes research, data analytics, and artificial intelligence. All of these collaborations come through OneCouncil.

Dr. Dinesh Kapur

*Chair of OneCouncil at OneOncology,
Medical Oncologist at Eastern Connecticut Hematology & Oncology*